

With a background in education, including senior management in secondary schools, we provide a bespoke consultancy service to schools to help raise standards and drive improvement, through whole staff training, or project specific work.

A recent project we undertook, was the implementation of an “Engagement Hub” at a local school in Bedfordshire whose aim was to support those students at risk of disaffection and/or exclusion, giving them a place where they can feel safe, continue their learning without disrupting others’ learning, in an environment that meets their educational needs.
